$35,000 Goal In Sight As Legion Campaign Closes

Final Effort of Army of Workers Which Can Insure Permanent Memorial to Those Who Made It Possible to Keep The Home Fires Burning—Unsolicited Contributions Demonstrate Public's Attitude.

The team workers of the army at is fighting such a commendable ght in the offensive to capture Hill 5,000, made the best report of any y so far Friday night at the night- meeting at the Y. M. C. A. The y's total was $3,218.05, with any prospects still unseen. The rd teams have not all finished eir wards, some people not being home when called on.

Noise that made it seem like Armice Day broke loose when the conibution of $500, made by Mrs. W. Brinnier and sons, in memory of William D. Brinnier, was announced. With this kind of support the orkers can accomplish anything.

Another good piece of news, mong the many, was the spirit own by Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, The Bryant, who called up a Leionnaire and said that no one had en to see but she wanted to give 100 to this patriotic cause. The plause that greeted this made the M. C. A. windows rattle.

rganization Contributions Just Starting.

A few more organizations gave eir bit to swell the fund. Charles eWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Or- er United American Mechanics, ent in $50 and Cordts Hose Co. 100. Bedlam broke loose again hen these were announced.

Below is the letter accompanying e last mentioned check:

Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion.

Gentlemen:

In honor of our 21 members who erved during the World War, many f whom are active members of your rganization, John N. Cordts Hose ompany, No. 8, considers it a pleasre for them to contribute the sum f $100 to your building fund.

MARTIN J. SCHLEEDE, Foreman.

The good news is circulating round, and rumors are afloat, that a reat many other fraternities, organzations and institutions are arrangng to send in their contributions to onor the boys that went away.

A check for $100 was handed to a Legion worker Friday by Fuller's Shirt Company. This was entirely nsolicited on the part of the Legion member. It shows the generous upport that is making this campaign a success.

The workers Friday night were iven fresh ammunition to carry on his battle on Hill $35,00 by Charles A. Ramsey of the executive committee, and president of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Ramsey said he was proud of the boys when they marched away, he was proud of them when they marched home, and he was still proud of them. Most people in Kingtson felt the same as he did, which insured the success of the campaign. Only it means work to go out and get the money. "The money is ready for us, let's go and collect it."

Chairman Sam Watts then addressed the workers and said that the top of Hill $35,000 was in sight and spurred on his army to make the greatest effort to reach the summit. If this cannot be done by tonight, the cannons will roar until Monday night, and if Monday night doesn't win the fight, the scrap will be continued until the battle is won. This was greeted with the highest enthusiasm, which bespeaks for the campaign a great success. The workers will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

President Taken Suddenly Ill While at Work

Attack of Stomach Trouble Compels President Coolidge to Leave Executive Offices and Return to White House—All Engagements Cancelled.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 23.—President Coolidge suffered a slight attack of indigestion while in the executive office this morning but so promptly recovered that he will take a party of friends on his usual week-end cruise down the Potomac river on the Mayflower this afternoon.

Because of his indisposition, the president cancelled all engagements and retired to the Executive Mansion.

After an examination the White House physicians, Dr. Joel T. Boone and Major J. T. Coupal, announced that the president had suffered "only a slight illness."

Mrs. Coolidge was taking her daily morning walk when the president became ill. Upon returning to the White House, she immediately went to the president's side.

Severe 'Quake Visits Japan

Two Hundred Houses Destroyed in Toyooka—Fire Follows Shock—Railroad Train May be Buried in Tunnel.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokio, May 23.—A disastrous earthquake occurred in the Canin district at 11 o'clock this morning coincident with an eruption of the Mount Yakegatake volcano and early reports indicated considerable destruction and a probable large loss of life.

Two hundred houses were destroyed in the city of Toyooka and fire broke out and still was burning, according to last reports. The railway station and post office were said to have collapsed.

An unconfirmed report reached here that eighty persons had been killed by the earthquake in the villages of Kunihama and Fukuchiyama, near Toyooka.

A railroad tunnel near Ashiya was reported to have collapsed and a passenger train which is missing is feared to have been caught in the tunnel.

Another train overturned at Genbudo.

The Ikuno silver mine, the largest in Japan, was damaged by the quake and an unreported number of miners trapped underground. Seismologists declared the earthquake to have been heavier than the last severe one of January 15, 1924.

Seven army aeroplanes have started from Osaka to determine the extent of the damage.

Toyooka has a population of 10,000 and early reports said there was likely to be a heavy list of casualties. All communication with the stricken district has been interrupted.

The first earth shock lasted ten minutes and was continuing, reports said.

Kinobaki Hot Springs, six miles from Toyooka, was also reported destroyed.

The city Osaka, with a population of almost a million persons, was heavily shaken. A small fire broke out and water mains were said to have been damaged.

Crops in the vicinity of Mount Yakegatake, where the volcanic eruption occurred, were damaged by the fall of ashes.

It is expected however, that the lights will be installed early next week. The grounds are in readiness to be used aside from the lighting.

Enumerators to Wear Badges

Census Enumerator Will Wear White Metal Badge and Carry Notice of Appointment—Census Fakers Will Be Watched Closely.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 23.—Every New York state census enumerator will be required to wear a white metal badge in the shape of a shield and bearing the words "Census Enumerator, State Census 1925," and followed with the words "Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, New York." These badges are to be worn by the enumerators, both men and women, while in the performance of their duties, and must be displayed in a conspicuous place. The enumerators will also carry their notice of appointment. It is expected that such arrangements will prevent unscrupulous persons from impersonating census enumerators.

Mrs. Knapp has sent out a letter to all county supervisors of census calling their attention to the fact that all enumerators must wear their badges and likewise asking that anyone found impersonating an eumerator, be reported immediately to the police, as well as to her office.

This action follows a report that reached Mrs. Knapp yesterday, when a prominent woman resident of Albany, stated that a foreigner, claiming to be a census enumerator, had called and asked a number of questions. The woman was alone at the time and the man got no further than the front door. Chiefs of police throughout the state will receive notice from Mrs. Knapp next week to be on the lookout for any person claiming to be an enumerator and not carrying the badge and qualifications.

Severe Storm Strikes Syracuse

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 23.—Syracuse and its immediate vicinity was the target for a severe electrical, thunder and wind storm this morning. Early reports indicated that the full fury of the storm was felt in the so-called "tornado" belt, running from Baldwinsville to North Syracuse.

In the city proper, electric lights wires were put out of commission, trees twisted and torn, and the trolley services interruped. Property damages will probably be heavy but so far as is known, no one was injured.

Farm Bureau Secures Expert

Prof. A. M. Goodman, drainage engineer at Cornell University, has been engaged by the Ulster County Farm Bureau to assist in laying out the drain projects on the farms of several members in the Wallkill valley. This is a much needed work in this county, according to Farm Bureau Manager Wigsten, who is assisting Prof. Goodman. Farmers lose valuable time and spend considerable money for labor lost in working around low spots and wet holes in fields.

Several members have requested assistance along this line for next fall. Others who will make their wants known during the summer will be handled on Mr. Godman's return in October.

Special Session For Park Bill

Is Being Speculated Upon at the Capitol—Governor Will Try to Convince G. O. P. Leaders Tuesday That They Should Pass Another Bill.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 23.—Opinion is divided at the capitol over the possibility of Governor Smith calling a special session of the legislature to pass a new state park appropriation bill.

There are some who believe that at the conference next Tuesday with the Republican legislative leaders and the representatives of various state park commissions, the governor will be able to convince the Republicans they should pass another park bill at a special session.

Others insist that the Republicans will not give in from the position they took at the last session of the legislature with the result that the executive will find it useless to call the lawmakers back to Albany this summer.

Not one cent of the $15,000,000 bond issue for the improvement of state parks can be spent until next year, at the earliest, if the governor and the Republican leaders fail to get together.

The bond issue was approved by over a million majority. During the last session of the legislature the Republicans passed a bill sponsored by Senator Thayer, of Franklin, which would have appropriated $6,500,000 of the $15,000,000. The governor vetoed the measure after charging the Republicans with attempting to play politics with the state park program.

Under amendments made to the Thayer bill, the governor insisted that the attorney general and the state engineer would be able to spend the park improvement money without consent of the state park council. The measure also was amended so that the park council could not appropriate land without condemnation proceedings.

During the last week Attorney General Ottinger, Republican, issued a statement attacking the governor for vetoing the Thayer bill. Ottinger charged the governor with being responsible for delaying the park improvement plans. He said he was willing to let the people judge who was trying to play politics with the parks.

Sailing on the Leviathan, which is carrying 1,300 passengers, were Senator and Mrs. William Calder of Brooklyn; Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, King C. Gillette, razor manufacturer and Anna Pavlova, dancer.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Sails.

Shunning publicity even to the extent of appearing incognito on the passenger list, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson sailed on the liner Majestic today for Europe. She was accompanied by Miss Belle Barauch, daughter of B. M. Baruch.

Mrs. Wilson expects to be abroad indefinitely and to visit the capitals and places she visited with the late President during the peace negotiations.

Eight Buildings Totally Destroyed and Two Damaged in Disastrous Fire of Thursday Night—Fire Still Smouldering at Noon Today.

The fire which swept the village of Gardiner early Thursday evening destroyed eight buildings and badly damaged two others with a fire loss of about $125,000, which is partly covered by insurance. At noon today the ruins were still smouldering.

The fire broke out about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the G. L. F. feed store near the Wallkill Valley railroad tracks, and is thought to have been caused by spontaneous combusion in newly stored fed in the store. Aid was summoned from New Paltz, Highland and Walden.

One Fireman Injured.

One fireman, Harry Alberg of New Paltz, received a severe cut on one arm when his arm broke a window in the combination ice cream parlor and grocery store of George Currie. It required several stitches to sew up the wound.

From the feed store the flames, fanned by a strong wind, spread to the town hall and garage and repair shop of Wright Brothers, and other buildings nearby, all located on the east side of the railroad tracks in a sort of a village square.

Buildings Destroyed.

Storehouse of William LaDue.
Frank Moran's undertaking parlors.
John Rosekrans's saw and grist mills.

Urge Religion To Save Nations

Keynote of Reports to Presbyterian General Assembly—Fundamentalists Oppose Church Union—World Court Favored.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Columbus, Ohio, May 23.—Projects for union with allied churches, including Congregational and Reformed, were expecide today to stir up another battle between liberals and conservatives in the Presbyterian General Assembly here.

Fundamentalists will try to block any move looking toward organic union with the Congregational Churches it was expected. Opposition is to be headed by leaders of the conservative Philadelphia Presbytery.

World-wide interdenominational unity in solving problems of nations through religion was the keynote of voluminous reports presented today to the Presbyterian General Assembly meeting in annual conference here.

The World Court, the situation in the Christian world in Europe and Asia, home problems such as lynching and church unity were discussed in the reports submited.

The Commission on International Justice pledged that body toward "an educational campaign for the outlawing of war and constructive measures for the peaceful settlement of all international difficulties," and advocated the participation of the United States in the World Court.

Lynchings Lessen.

The lynching evil was put before the assembly by the report of the commission on the church and race relations. This report stated that, through the propaganda conducted by the body and the development of interracial committees of leading white and negro citizens, the number of lynchings in America had been reduced to the lowest figure ever known in the present generation.

STAGGERING WALKERS STRUCK BY AUTO

James Doran of the town of Kingston was arrested this morning by State Troopers on a charge of public intoxication. Friday evening he and a companion named Pat McCann while on the Kingston-West Hurley road near the Walker farm in the town of Ulster staggered in the roadway just as an automobile of Richard H. Whalen of 51 Cornell street came along. McCann was hit and was taken to the Kingston City Hospital, but Doran luckily was not hit. McCann's injury was slight. Mr. Whalen reported the accident to Sheriff Wells and a warrant for the arrest of Doran was obtained from Judge James E. Kennedy of the town of Ulster who fined him $5 today.

Frank Schermerhorn Arrested.

Frank Schermerhorn of Cedar street was arrested by State Troopers Friday night and placed in jail pending a hearing before Judge James E. Kennedy in the town of Ulster on a charge of public intoxication and disorderly conduct on the Central grounds across the Esopus creek bridge. This morning Judge Kennedy fined him $5.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COLD TAG

"Hello," said Carrie Cough, "let's all join in and play a tag."

"Let's," said Susy Sneeze.

"Let's," said Clarence Sore Throat.

"Let's," said Harry Headache.

"I'll be It," said Susy Sneeze.

"Where will we play this time?" asked Clarence Sore Throat.

"Oh, let's play at Melly's. She is so proud, because she seldom has a cold that we'll punish her for her pride."

"You Can't Catch Me," Said Carrie Cough.

Now you know the members of the Cold family are very mean. They have no consideration of a person's feelings, none whatever. They don't care how they make a person feel. They have no sympathy and no kindliness.

In fact they are as hateful as hateful can be.

Susy Sneeze had a first cousin named Susy Sneeze, and also a twin sister by that name, and the cousin had a twin sister by the same name; which was curious, but a fact.

There were many in the family, and they didn't bother to have a great many different names. They were too busy doing mean things to think up a variety of names.

"Yes, let's play at Melly's," said Susy Sneeze.

"All right," said Clarence Sore Throat.

"All right," said Carrie Cough.

"All right," said Harry Headache.

"And you're It," said Carrie Cough to Susy Sneeze.

"I'm It," she answered.

They began to play so quickly that Melly was taken by surprise. At first she couldn't believe it was true. She couldn't think how she could have caught cold.

She hadn't had her feet wet lately, nor had she worn too few clothes, nor had she gone out when it had rained without rubbers. She couldn't think at all how she had caught the cold.

For she realized in no time at all that she was in for a regular cold.

Even though it had been hard to believe at first it was certainly so.

"You can't catch me, you can't catch me," said Harry Headache.

"Tag, you're it!" shouted Susy Sneeze.

Now Melly had been sneezing and sneezing and sneezing and sneezing.

It had seemed as though she couldn't stop sneezing. And how her head did ache. She had sneezed so hard and the cold in her head was so bad that her head ached dreadfully.

"You can't catch me, you can't catch me," cried Clarence Sore Throat to Harry Headache.

"Tag! You're it!" shouted Harry Headache.

Oh, how sore Melly's throat did feel now. Never had she known a cold to dash along so rapidly as this one. Usually it had not gone so fast. This was dreadful. Now her throat was so sore. She still sneezed some, her head still ached, but her throat was raw and sore and hurt to swallow.

"You can't catch me, you can't catch me," said Carrie Cough to Clarence Sore Throat.

"Tag! You're it!" shouted Clarence Sore Throat.

Melly began to cough. And it hurt to cough, too.

Her head still ached, she still sneezed some, her throat was very sore and she coughed.

Not one of them would give up playing. Sometimes her throat seemed worse than her head, sometimes it was the other way around.

But never had she had a cold gallop through her as this one had. Nor did any part of the cold completely leave her. It all remained with her.

Her Head Still Ached.

It was all because they were playing the game of Cold Tag "at Melly's" as they said. You know how you will play tag—a very nice, jolly game.

But they were playing Cold Tag which is far from being a nice game. Instead of playing it out in the open they choose a person's throat and head in which to play it—and that is not kind. Nor is it showing the least bit of consideration.

It is, you see, all because every member of the Cold family is entirely lacking in sympathy. That is the whole trouble.

"Use Soap, Mamma!"

I was washing some spinach for dinner and after several washings I said, mostly to myself:

"My, but this spinach is dirty," when four-year-old Jean advised:

"Use soap, mamma, use soap."

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

SEASONABLE FOODS.

The old spring tonic of sulphur and molasses was, in the old days, part of the regular spring housecleaning. Today, with the advance in dietetics, we know that a dish of spinach, dandelion greens, water cress, spring onions and radishes, can do the cleansing work more effectively and agreeably. An orange or an apple a day will jog the sluggish liver, and rhubarb is better than any cathartic.

Scalloped Onions and Peanuts.—Cut large onions into quarters and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and put into a buttered baking dish in layers with a rich white sauce and a layer of finely minced peanuts. Finish the top with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are well browned. Cheese may be used in place of the peanuts for variety.

Rhubarb Pudding.—Butter slices of bread, place in a baking dish and cover with finely cut pieplant, sprinkle with sugar; repeat until enough is prepared for the family to be served. Bake until the rhubarb is done. Serve hot or cold, with cream.

Rhubarb Dessert.—Stew a pound of rhubarb in just enough water to keep from scorching. Sweeten to taste after putting through a sieve. When chilled add a cupful of whipped cream and serve in sherbet cups with a bit of pineapple, and a maraschino cherry on top of each glass.

Carrots With Peas.—Cut into half-inch cubes enough carrots to make two cupfuls and cook 15 minutes in boiling water. Drain, and while hot add one-third of a cupful of butter; shake well so that each piece of carrot is well-covered with butter. Add one-third of a cupful of sugar mixed with a tablespoonful of fresh mint, finely chopped. Cook slowly until the carrots are tender and well-glazed. Have ready a pint of tender, cooked green peas. Pile the carrots in the center of a pot platter and arrange the peas as a border. The peas should be hot and well seasoned.

Serve greens, cooked or raw, very frequently at this season of the year.

Brothers of the Savior

According to the Bible Jesus had four brothers—James, Joses, Simon and Jude, the last named being also called Judas. Smith in his notable Bible dictionary says Jesus had three sisters. The Scripture merely mentions the sisters of Jesus without giving their number or names.—Exchange.

Today We Celebrate

NESTER ENGLISH.

Nester English was a Frenchwoman by extraction, and she was eminent for her fine chirography in the time of Queen Elizabeth and James I. Many of her performances are still extant, both in the public libraries and the hands of individuals. In fact she was thought the most exquisite of her age. She married, at the age of forty, Bartholomew Keile, a North Briton, and had a son who was educated at Oxford, and was minister at Speckshall, in Suffolk.

VICTORIA.

The first appearance of the city of Victoria in the pages of history was as the gathering place of the Songhees, who assembled, on the site of the future paleface municipality to celebrate their tribal feasts. Victoria became the capital of the Colony of British Columbia on May 24, 1868, and of the Province, when it entered the Dominion in 1871. The Indian name of the place was Camosun, and this was adopted by the adventurers of the Hudson's Bay Company who made it their sunset post.

The first English settlement on Vancouver's Island was made in 1781. The Spaniards seized the island in 1789, but it was soon returned to Britain by Captain Vancouver, whose name was given to the island. The modern city of Victoria was founded in 1857, and it early attained some importance through the discovery of gold on the neighboring mainland. After the gold rush subsided Victoria became a sleepy old English town, but today it is one of the most prosperous cities of Western Canada.

"HANDS ACROSS THE SEA."

The first occasion since the founding of the Republic upon which a United States military organization took part in a celebration in honor of an English monarch was on May 23, 1879, 46 years ago today, when the thirteenth regiment of the N. Y. National Guards arrived in Montreal.

The purpose of the "invasion" of the military which hailed from Brooklyn, was to join in Montreal's celebration of the anniversary of Queen Victoria, which was held in Mt. Royal Park on the following day. The relations twixt the U. S. and Canada were considerably strained during and following the Civil War, because of the Fenian raids and other matters, but in a decade this animosity was entirely forgotten, and the visit of the Brooklyn soldiers was the last step in the healing of the breach between the mighty Republic and its continental neighbor.

Henry Ward Beecher, the distinguished Captain of the Thirteenth Regiment responded to the Governor-General's toast to the President of the United States.

Famine Stalks Parts of Ireland

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, May 23.—Famine, which stalked in the west of Ireland during the winter, has been somewhat alleviated by the coming of the milder spring weather, but there is still great distress.

Charles H. Fahey, medical officer, reports from Ardhara, Donegal, that distress there is very acute and that actual starvation is not far distant.

The milder weather, although in many parts of the west Irish coast the summer does not bring hot weather, has alleviated sufferings from cold, due to the peat shortage. The food shortage still continues and will probably continue until the first potato crops are in. Potatoes are the chief food of these people and, as last year's crop was almost an entire failure, there is a great shortage of food.

Relief Continues.

Fishing along the Galway coast increases with better weather and another source of foodstuff is reopened, but the competition with steam trawlers, some of them poachers, makes it almost impossible for the small fisherman to eke out a living from the waters of the Atlantic.

Relief work is still going on in the districts where the distress has been most acute. With sufficient aid, in the shape of seed potatoes and opportunity for work, the situation by autumn should be much improved. While all winters are lean winters for many people in west Ireland, it is to be hoped that there will be no repetition of last winter's distress.

Ruth May Return A Greater Player

Babe Ruth Will Be Fifty Per Cent a Better Player When He Returns—Collapse Probably Best Thing Ever Happened to Famous Player.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 23.—After viewing the great man's struggles to resume his old familiarity with a pitched ball for some days past, the writer arrived at the conclusion that George H. Ruth, the well known outfielder, will be fifty per cent a better man for the illness that has kept him out of baseball for the first two months of the season.

There is something so much more trim and youthful about the convalescent Ruth as to make it difficult to associate him with the pudgy, over indulged figure of the spring training era. He is still weak, of course, but his physical condition, all things considered, gives evidence of a prolonged career where several months ago it seemed as though the end was not far away.

Ruth's face is pale but it shows no sign of the ravages of illness. On the contrary, it seems to have taken on the look of an overgrown boy's. His body still may lack its former strength but his paunch is no more. His legs remain shaky but the muscles are hard and firm to the touch and have not been tapered off by his long seige on a sick bed.

In brief, the young man's post-season collapse probably was the best thing that could have happened to him.

It may have dimmed his batting eye, temporarily, but it has apprised him of the value of physical condition and that fact, in the final analysis will prove the more important. Ruth will have a batting eye as long as he enjoys the privilege of breathing but, at the pace he was going, premature age would have claimed him in a few years at the most.

Baseball fans will be astonished at Ruth's appearance when he returns to the game. The writer first saw him when he came up to the big time late in the 1914 season and his face seems younger now than it did then.

A little care in his preparation for the big moment and it is more than possible that Ruth will return to baseball a greater player than ever before.

K. H. S. Whipped By Port Jervis

Orange County Pitcher Too Much for High School Nine—Good Crowd Sees Local Team Get Severe Trouncing.

Friday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds the K. H. S. baseball team was defeated by Port Jervis High School Nine 10-3, before an enthusiastic crowd.

Both teams started off with air-tight ball and continued for three innings. In the first half of the fourth inning, however, the Port Jervis sluggers ran wild, driving "Pret" Knight out of the box and getting several hits from Joyce before he was warmed up to the situation. When these batting demons were finally stopped they had rung up six tallies, which proved more than the locals could make up. The Orange county boys came back again in the fifth and sixth with four more runs, which set the locals hopelessly behind. In the last of the eighth inning McCarthy, the Port Jervis pitcher, slackened his heavy pace, and the locals came through with three runs before the last ball was thrown. McCarthy pitched good ball throughout the game, striking out eight Kingston men. Knight and Joyce together struck out nine Port Jervis men.

Good Crowd.

Shortly after 3:30 the K. H. S. students began to assemble in the bleachers at the Fair Grounds. When the game started there was a crowd of several hundred people, mostly high school students, enthusiastically cheering the home team. In the second inning it looked as though the Kingston boys would be the first to tally. With three men on the bases and only one out at least one run seemed certain. But McCarthy's skill had not been tried. Pulling himself together, he pitched the next batters out.

Separate Coat Is Still in Fashion

For Evening and Sports-Wear Wrap Is as Indispensable as Ever.

The ladies of the ensemble may profess a high disdain for the separate spring coat, but that ancient and eminent member of milady's wardrobe is not so easily cast aside. It is true that the new prominence of the tailleur and the increased vogue of the ensemble, each boasting its individual coat, has slightly diminished the importance of the separate wrap, but even in its lesser state it remains one of the formative factors of spring fashions. As a matter of fact, it is only in the afternoon mode that its position has been threatened—for evening and sportswear the separate coat is as indispensable as ever, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune.

You may depend upon the current mode to offer a feminine offset for every mannish manifestation, and the simple collar has its frilly opposite in the ever dainty jabot. An illustration of the jabot theme as applied to coats is interesting. With her accustomed originality Vionnet has made this fine cloth redingote without collar or revers and cut it out deeply to show a white shirt-blouse with the very feminine jabot attached. The buttons are arranged in a triangle similar to the latest dinner waistcoats. The skirt is slightly umbrella-shaped, though it curves in at the hem—an inversion of the typical method of departing from the tubular silhouette.

The combination of flared front and straight back is eminently en regle for spring. The retention of the straight back is an evidence of the stubborn hold of the close silhouette and the first days of spring made it apparent that while the haute monde has adopted the flare, it is invariably combined with molded lines.

Wear Buttoning Wraps.

Yet despite the occasionally sinuous lines of the coats of spring, it is noteworthy that the wrap-around model and its obvious methods have been largely replaced by buttoning wraps, and this applies to double as well as single-breasted coats. Both types have been in evidence, but the smarter and newer models will substitute the buttoning coat for the less comfortable self-held cloak. The wrap-around, like the sleeveless afternoon dress and the acutely short skirt, has been just another manifestation of exaggerated youth, and the tasteful woman will rejoice at its partial eclipse.

The sleeves on coats are diverse, and they should be, if they are to convey an adequate impression of that portion of the spring mode. As in afternoon dresses and the ensemble, there is no more individual component of the new costume. Let attractiveness be the first consideration and the only consideration — the most fanciful sleeves and the very severe occupy an equal place in the present mode.

There is an occasional tendency to lightly define the waistline and this is most evident in the mannish overcoats, where the half-belt is gaining in favor. When there is no half-belt, the coat has a distinct semi-fit at the waist and the skirt below either flares slightly or is equipped with plaits that give a straightline fullness.

The black silk coat is a certain solution to the formal afternoon problem and it has been one of the most frequent early spring notes on the Paris boulevards. Many different types are seen but the most modish is the model with a slight hemline flare. It harmonizes with the full skirt of the dress and its effect is unusually graceful when fastened at the waist.

Beige, gray and boise de rose are the most popular colors for daytime coats. Black, of course, forms the background of many town wardrobes and its smartness is as incontestable as ever. Black and white, black and beige and black and gray are some of the contrasts that are popular. Navy blue is considerably more fashionable than it has been for some years but needs careful choosing lest it be conducive to an almost dowdy appearance.

Metallic Wraps du Soir.

Wraps du soir come into a category alone. The greatest chic is to have a separate cloak for every dress, but obviously that is not always possible. Almost as good results may be attained by having one or two cloaks that will harmonize with several dresses. An effective plan is to have a rich gold or silver cloth coat that may be trimmed with fur or embroidery, or both. This can be worn with all plain dresses. With embroidered gowns it is preferable to have a plain coat or a cape and either of these may be in velvet, georgette crepe or some plain metal fabric. Bois de rose tints are easy to wear with many dresses and green, blue, amber and dull reds are all smart colors. Wide bands of feathers are popular as trimmings and they have almost taken the place of fur on summer evening wraps. Dyed in gay colors to match the cloak these make a warm and effective trimming. A flower collar is always effective and adds an original touch.

Most of the long coats along the Champs-Elysees button, and only a few of them are made to wrap over and be held with the hand. Many have patch pockets which are often embroidered, generally in colored wools. Other models have the charming Cherult painted pocket in the lining. Some have a flat double plait all down the center back and others are made on directoire lines with three little shoulder capes and a high collar, or one slightly longer cape.

The early Paris promenaders have a distinct penchant for yokes and this is in evidence on coats as well as the tailleur. Fanciful sleeves are also prominent and some of them end in layers with touches of embroidery at the wrist. One coat seen on the Rue de la Paix had three little oversleeves bordered with black, the longest reaching half way to the elbow.

Have Flower Buttonhole.

A flower buttonhole accompanies most of the suits and tailored coats, and more often than not it is a red carnation. This pretty fashion came into vogue last summer and it is apparent that Paris intends it to remain.

Kasha and covert coatings are the leading fabrics of early models. Kasha is frequently combined with georgette crepe or chiffon, the latter material being used in applied panels at the side of the coat. Fancy suitings and Rodier mixtures are also prominent and so is plain alpaca, a new granulated alpaca and one with a faint self-colored line.

Waterproofed crepe de chine is seen on every rainy day. The colors in which this fabric has been developed are quite attractive and there is no longer an excuse for milady to appear bedraggled in wet weather. The smartest of these rainy-day coats are collared and cuffed with short-haired furs, notably squirrel.

Black lace forms many charming gowns, and in several instances it is also used for the long coat that often goes with the robe du soir. In lace, the coat usually has long sleeves, and the dress accompanying it is adorned with a bright flower or an amusing little bouquet stuck into the swathed sash or pinned onto the corsage. Sleeveless lame coats, semi-fitting, slip over many simple evening frocks, and when they are fastened seem to form part of the dress, though when removed it is seen that the dress is an entity in itself.

Gay Embroidery Is Used on Dainty Paris Frocks

Word from Paris brings the news that almost every dress on exhibition there has a touch of embroidery, either in front on the bodice, on the pockets, belt or on the collar and cuffs. The embroideries are in vivid colored silks or beads and two colors are often employed together, for instance rose and mauve, green and blue, etc.

Many belts and belt effects often at the back only are seen, and there are some belt effects obtained by inserted bands, plain or embroidered.

The sleeves are straight and long, sometimes rather tight and trimmed with linen like the collar. No short sleeves are shown and only a few sleeveless frocks.

Optimism

Harry Carey's little son Dobe is an enthusiastic motorist and when any of the hands make the round of the Carey ranch in the family flivver Dobe is sure to go along.

To enter the Carey place you climb a modest grade into Granite pass and after a rain it's a slippery, tricky piece of road. Thus it came about that the flivver slipped and slid and finally stalled just before it reached the top of the grade.

"Gee widz," said Dobe, "one more slitherer an' I bet we'd a made her."—Los Angeles Herald.

PLEASING RECITAL AT THE ST. JAMES CHURCH

A pleasing recital was given at the St. James M. E. Church Friday evening by Harriet A. Spink, soprano; Florence Cubberley, violinist, and Harry F. Dodge, accompanist, for the benefit of the new organ fund of the church.

Miss Spink has a voice of considerable power and wide range and much versatility in her art. Mrs. Cubberley is a well-known musical favorite in Kingston and in the last group of songs, Mrs. Cubberley's obligato part added much to the charm of the songs. The interesting program was as follows:

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 23, 1925.

As former Vice-President Marshall is reported still to be keeping an eye open for a good five-cent cigar, somewhat of its economy-flavor is taken from the story that the President resolutely insists on being satisfied with a ten-center.

Having found her municipal duties a bore, Mayor Whiston of Holloway, Ohio, has resigned, and warns women with the responsibilities of a home against entering politics. She proposes to please herself and leave to other women the duty of purifying and elevating politics.

The Des Moines, Iowa, chief of police is reported to be planning a parade of captured bootleggers, each with his feet fastened in old-time "stocks." But what if some sharp fellow among them should take it into his head to appeal to the Constitution's provision against "cruel and unusual punishments?"

The National Association of Manufacturers reports that study of ten thousand answers to questionaires all over the country indicate that immediate business and prospects for the summer are healthier than they have been since the end of the war. "Hysteria and indecision no longer exist, production is healthy and can be greatly increased on demand, wages are high and employment on the increase." The further anouncement that "consumers' prices are lower"—will be somewhat surprising—to consumers.

THE PRECOCIOUS CHILD.

Observation during many years has seemed to show that the precocious child is apt to be unhealthy in body, abnormal in behavior, and doomed either to early death or a speedy lapse into mental mediocrity. This widely held view is now flatly contradicted by Dr. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford University, who, after careful investigation, has summarized in a bulletin issued by Science Service of Washington the results of his study of the "best one per cent," or the notably bright and clever ones, among 250,000 school children. He reports that these superior children were found to be as a class, heavier, larger and healthier than the average, better proportioned physically and more stable nervously than their duller companions. They surpass in all directions, are not freakish or irregular in their abilities, and there is nothing abnormal or mystical in their interests outside of their studies, vigorous games being as well liked by them as by the other children.

It is further contended that such superior children similarly examined fifteen years ago have not pined away physically or lapsed mentally, steadily keeping their lead. All this is interesting, but it would appear to be a study merely of "superior children," not of marvelous "infant prodigies," and as such it can hardly be said to overthrow the old view. Only recently it was brought to light that the once famed young William Sidis who, at ten years, caused amazement by lecturing on the fourth dimension before a learned society in Boston, is now, at 25, doing unimportant routine work as a $25 a week clerk.

RIDER HAGGARD.

Our literary high priests of "sex stuff," devastating pessimism and materialism, or so-called realism, would doubtless rate H. Rider Haggard as a poor creature beneath their notice, yet it may be that some of his work will be read long after theirs has been forgotten. It is something to inspire redoubtable to the wildly impossible and grip hosts of readers to the last page, and that was done by the author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," and the rest of the extraordinary tales that made the interior of Africa a land of dreams, imagination and romance as well as of hair-raising adventure. Rider Haggard may not have produced "literature" but he achieved world fame, his romances securing enormous vogue in all book-reading countries. And in spite of the howls of new writers he is still read.

Altogether apart from his romantic writings, Sir Henry Rider Haggard, whose death has been announced from London, was a versatile, busy and useful citizen of much ability and force. He served as a colonial official, was a successful English farmer, a promoter of Salvation Army labor colonies and an agitator for empire settlement. In addition to his fifty-odd romances he wrote several books on agriculture which are valued. During the war he was sent throughout the British empire to arrange for the emigration of soldiers after the great conflict. Those who met him as he passed across the United States found him a highly intelligent man of an interesting personality.

That Body of Yours

CLIMATE AND HEALTH.

You are not feeling up to the mark and you think a change of climate might help you.

You may be able financially to go anywhere you choose, or it may mean some sacrifice for you to get away for a few weeks.

Now a change is good for everybody. The change of scene rests the brain, yes, brightens it. The change of food and style of cooking is often a big factor in restoring your appetite.

The freedom from business or home cares gives a pleasant reaction to the whole nervous system.

And yet if you have in mind a change of climate, you would be wise to study the matter carefully with the help of your physician.

For instance, you may decide to go to the mountains, where the bracing air will stimulate every function of your body.

You might feel light and airy, will want to take some exercise, and your blood will grow richer in the higher altitude.

But it may so happen that you have been working at a tremendous pace mentally and your nerves are all unstrung.

The mountains would not be the proper place then, because you need to go where everything would have a tendency to make you rest body and brain.

And that is why the warm, moist climate of the tropics is so helpful to the exhausted nervous case. The warmth and moisture simply persuade him to "loaf," to lie around and do absolutely nothing, to sleep for a portion of the day, besides all the night.

Then after a sojourn there, with body and mind rested, he can go to an invigorating mountain climate, and begin to exercise his body and also his brain.

Where there is any tendency to gout or rheumatism, a warm dry climate is indicated, and the same applies to any kidney or skin condition.

And for the average man?

A chance to go somewhere where he would like to go, to do the things he would like to do, is about the best suggestion where a change only is required.

But where there is a definite ailment to be corrected, then remember the above suggestions, because climate is a big factor in regaining health, and it would be unfortunate if time and money were wasted and harm, rather than good, resulted.

Health Talk on Tuberculosis

"What the Tuberculosis Hospital Means to You" Was the Subject of Dr. Thayer's Radio Health Talk Friday Evening—5,000 Sufferers Can be Taken Care of at One Time in State.

"What the Tuberculosis Hospital Means to You" was the subject of a talk broadcast Friday evening by Dr. L. I. Thayer, supervisor of Tuberculosis Hospitals of the State Department of Health. This was one of the regular weekly radio talks which that department has been giving for over three years. Dr. Thayer said that besides the provisions for New York city residents there are now hospital accommodations for about 5,000 patients in New York state. He stated that the tuberculosis hospitals do their greatest amount of good by removing from society persons who are sources of the disease and by teaching them to take proper care of themselves in order that they may subsequently return to their homes no longer dangerous to others.

"Let us," said Dr. Thayer, "consider for a moment the tuberculosis hospital situation in New York state, leaving out of consideration those institutions which are operated almost entirely for residents of New York city. The state itself conducts one large sanatorium for early cases—at Ray Brook. Furthermore each county having a population of more than 35,000 is required by law to have a county tuberculosis hospital or else to arrange for the care of its patients in other hospitals. As a result of this law there are now about 30 distinctly county hospitals and some others which, through contracts with the counties, serve practically the same purpose. In all nearly five thousand sufferers with tuberculosis can be cared for in this state at one time.

"Besides learning how to prevent passing 'his germs' to others the patient at a tuberculosis hospital learns how to rest, or as we say, 'take the cure.' Although a person should remain at the hospital until the doctor says it is safe for him to go home, sometimes this is impossible and what he has been taught is of the greatest value in continuing his 'cure' at home.

"Some people seem to think a tuberculosis hospital is something akin to a poor house. This conception is absolutely wrong. Although patients unable to pay for their care receive their treatment free, those who can pay are expected to do so. Remember that instead of days and weeks to affect a 'cure' in tuberculosis it takes months and years. It is not surprising then that plenty of honest and hard-working people cannot meet the cost of their hospital maintenance and at the same time provide for their families.

"Having told you what the tuberculosis means to you, let me ask: What do you mean to the tuberculosis hospital? Do you give your full moral support to your hospital? Do you do all in your power to make the life of the patients just a little bit hmore pleasant and cheerful? Are you helping to create a public sentiment in your own locality favorable to your hospital so that the health of you and your family will be the better protected? Finally, have you ever visited your county hospital to see how well it is operated? Take a run out there some one of these fine spring days—you have an agreeable surprise coming to you."

The Orange in London

Oranges made their first recorded appearance in this country in 1290, when a Spanish fruit ship arrived at Portsmouth and the queen, Eleanor of Castile, purchased from its cargo 15 citrons and seven oranges. The next mention of them does not occur until 1595, when "pomes d'orring" figured among the delicacies at the coronation banquet of Henry IV, who may have become acquainted with the qualities of the fruit during his exile. By the Sixteenth century oranges seem to have become common, and it is recorded that the lords of the star chamber in 1600 had them served daily at dinner at a cost of 2d per day.—London Mail.

Valuable Air Cargoes

Precious stones will be part of the cargo of the airplanes now ready to fly over the 1,100 miles of tropical jungle between Kushasha, the capital of the Belgian Congo, and Kutango, in the interior. No fewer than 25 airdromes and landing grounds have been built in the swamps and jungles around the Congo, providing a continuous chain of alighting grounds. The principal "cargoes" on the air route will consist of diamonds, gold and ivory, which will be brought from the interior to the capital in a single day instead of in a week as by present transport methods.

Feudal Dinner Custom

Many of the curious things connected with the service of the medieval dinner table were the result of the peculiar social system. Although widely separated in rank, the feudal barons ate daily with his retainers. But at a feudal banquet the lord of the castle and his chief guest occupied seats at the farther side of the table or dais. They were said to sit at the dais, instead of at the table upon the dais. This feudal fashion of arranging the tables for a formal dinner survives in the modern custom of having a "raised table" for guests and speakers.

Barrett Roofs— and "Life Insurance"

Over the necessary number of plies of felt and pitch in a Barrett Roof comes the heavy top-coat of pitch. Then comes the wearing-surface of firmly imbedded slag or gravel. Burning brands fall harmlessly on this wearing surface.

Records show that many roofs of this type, built 40 or more years ago, are still in good condition.

Reason Enough

Newspaper space is the complete medium of advertising.

Complete, because it will accomplish all things that good advertising may be expected reasonably to accomplish.

It is not an adjunct or a supplement to any other kind of advertising.

For the national advertiser, it insures rapid and thorough retail distribution. Retailers want newspaper-advertised merchandise, because Newspaper advertising sells goods.

That is why the bulk of all advertising appears in the newspapers.

There are other reasons for the supremacy of newspaper advertising, but none so important as this—

It sells merchandise over the counter.

A. A. A. Appeals For Beauty Spots

All Motorists Are Urged to Get Behind A. A. A. Program for Cleaner Camps and Roadsides and For the Preservation of Wild Plant Life During 1925 Touring Season.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—All motorists are urged to get behind the program of the American Automobile Association for cleaner camps and roadsides and for the preservation of wild plant life in the 1925 touring season, according to a nation-wide appeal broadcast from the National Headquarters today.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee it was decided to throw all the resources of the National Association and its affiliated clubs into the movement for the maintenance of the beauty spots of America intact and against ruthless destruction of wild shrubs and flowers The appeal went out under the signature of Thomas P. Henry, President of the Association.

The A. A. A., President Henry announced, will extend and intensify the program which brought such good results last year. While the association is taking a leading part in the movement, many civic organizations including chamber of commerce, women's clubs, the Garden Club of America, the Wild Flower Preservation Society, Boy and Girl Scouts and other bodies interested in outdoor recreation will cooperate.

"This work should be regarded as one aspect of the safety program in which the country is engaged," Mr. Henry said. "We are doing everything possible to make the roads safer. It is also imperative that organized motordom put an end to the heedless destruction which is fastly depleting the natural beauty of the landscape."

The 700 clubs flying the Three A. emblem are pledged to give full support to the program formulated by National Headquarters. Every club is asked to launch a campaign in its own territory. The radio will be extensively used to promote plant conservation, roadside cleanliness and camp sanitation. Posters and pamphlets will be issued emphasizing the urgency of a national conservation policy in regard to the outdoors, and the government will be asked to scatter flower seeds in certain localities.

"Be good to your country" is the slogan of the campaign. Under this slogan the following notice will be carried on hundreds of thousands of maps issued by the Association, in all its publications including camp manual, hotel book and tour-books and it will also be prominently displayed in the touring bureau of every club affiliated with the National Association:

"Don't pick too many wild flowers.

"Holly, dogwood, mountain laurel and many other plants and flowers are being rapidly exterminated in this country because of unlicensed and ruthless gathering.

"Be good to your country and let all enjoy it!

"Extinguish camp fires when leaving.

"Burn or bury all rubbish.

"Leave your camp in as good order as you would like to find it.

"Observe these few courtesies of the road and keep your country looking as lovely as God intended it to be!"

"There are few motorists," said President Henry, "who would not commit themselves to the observation of these few simple rules. And yet in actual practice thousands disregard them. This is due to heedlessness rather than to wanton desire to destroy. Hence we may hope to accomplish much through education. In the communities where a campaign was waged last year, fewer cars were seen loaded with the product of the dispoiled woods.

"Nature provides us with so much beauty that we took profusion for granted and dealt with this profusion with lavish hands. But today we stand in danger of exterminating much that contributes so much to the charm of the trail. Many plants and flowers are practically depleted.

"Of course motorists have often been blamed unjustly. But there is no doubt that they have been careless in the past and there is plenty of room today for writing a new chapter in the creed of a good motorist. After all, the motorist himself is the one who stands to lose the most from the desecration of the camp and the roadside and from the spoliation of wild plant life.

"Our observation in the past has shown that the long-distance motor traveler is by no means the one who causes the most damage. The picnicker and the nomad traveling in the small car are as a rule the worst offenders. Lacking civic pride, sense of beauty and responsibility, only force can reach this type. But they are only a small percentage and if the great majority of motorists decide to hold fast to our slogan, "Be Good to Your Country," we can look forward to making 1925 season not only a banner year for the number of people who will go touring but also a banner year for clean and healthful recreation.

"There is no more excuse for heedless destruction of plants or for desecration of the camp and roadside than there is for reckless driving that puts life and property in jeopardy."

TIME OF DELIVERANCE

millions now living will never die

Instinctively mankind seems to feel that in some way deliverance will result in release from the throes of evil, injustice, inequality, and death.

Has not the presistent failure of plans and schemes for life and hapiness blasted hope of deliverance among men?

The Bible's Plan now stands forth with great promise.

The exact year, the very date, was not foretold; but with more certainty, with clearer identity, events such as wars, revolutions, crime waves, inventions with increase of knowledge, were to herald mankind's release.

Events about us seem to mark man's deliverance at hand.

TUCKS AND OTHER FABRIC TREATMENTS

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Although there are many clever trimming devices including several stunning ways of employing lace, embroidery, beading and what-not, there are times when fashion rejoices in their elimination. Many a smart woman dons a dinner gown which is innocent of trimming, but which by virtue of its cut and color, is distinguished. Such a gown often puts the bedecked dress to blush.

A sort of compromise has been effected in this and other instances by making the material serve as the trimming. No better way of bringing about this result may be found than by tucking. There is some attempt to reinstate smocking, and in some instances eyelet embroidery is experimented with and greatly liked, especially when the eyelets are oblong rather than round. Tucks satisfy most of us when in quest of a simple embellishment.

Silver and Pink Georgette, Featuring Graduated Tucks.

In the frock sketched, ombre georgette has been chosen, but a monotone is also effective. The dress is without foreign trimming and is one of the ultra simple gowns which always stand out among frocks given to elaboration.

The success of green as an evening shade has long been established, but it remains for this spring to acclaim darker and dull greens for evening or very pale nile and sea shades. Pond lily green is one of the new shades, while lettuce, apple and lime are all being ordered for June trousseaux.

Jade and Kelly greens, and such brilliant tones, are for the moment under an eclipse, and one is constantly being surprised by the choice of sage and dull greens for evening. Vatican purple is another color which is still new enough to occasion comment when worn for evening. Bright purple has had a tremendous success in Paris, and is bidding fair to duplicating it in America.

Preservation of Public Records

Importance Being Recognized by Public Officials—Steps Taken by Bookbinders to Keep Them Available —Ulster County's Investment in Records.

A talk on book binding, with special reference to the preservation of public records, was given by Paul E. Killion of New York city at the Rotary Club luncheon this week. After tracing the history of records through the use of papyrus and tablets of wood, stone and brick, to the days of paper and describing the excellent work of early book binders, Mr. Killion said:

One of the amazing features of the books of the 15th to part of the 19th century is the strength and durability of the hand made papers. There is nothing made today in the paper line that will equal their quality. Books that were bound in those days in prime leather laboriously and most efficiently tanned are today replaced with leather tanned with chemicals in short time. The invention of splitting machines have given the manufacturer several grades of leather from the same skin and books today are bound in split leathers. Although the invention of machinery has given impetus to all branches of manufacturing by the displacement of hand labor, yet paradoxical as it may seem the manufacturing of the main materials that enter into bookmaking have lowered the life and durability of present day record books.

To the Chinese we owe the best method yet devised for sewing books. What is known to the trade as the "saddle stitched book" was developed by them. This method consists of folding several sheets of paper into a section and sewing the sections through the fold. Following out and improving upon this method we now have the book sewed on guards. The sections are sewed to cloth and paper folds. This arrangement alows a perfectly flat opening of the book.

There are many different materials in which county records are bound. The prime requisite in a county record is durability and the material that has found popular favor is the American cowhide. It is usually finished in red but can be obtained in russet, wine color and black. Some binders finish their books in what is known as cowhide and sheepskin ends and bands. The book is first covered in full sheepskin, and the ends and middle of the book augmented with pieces of cowhide. Other records are bound in a soft fabric called moleskin on account of its very similar mole color. Canvas, buckram and fabrikoid are also used but these are inferior materials and should not be used on public records.

From the beginning of the use of county records in this country up until the 80's, very little protection was ever given the leather bindings. The books were used very little, abstracts of title were infrequently given and the general importance of the records as we know it today was very seldom thought of. But about 1881 a firm in New York began to take cognizance of the premature decay of the bindings on public records and began placing slip on canvas jackets on all record books they manufactured. This experiment proved a wonderful success. In offices where these large records were much used it was observed in about 20 years or about 1900 that the books made in 1880 that were provided with canvas jackets were still in fine condition while those made in the same year that were not provided with covers were wearing out and needing rebinding.

No doubt the idea of the canvas jackets for public records was conveyed to the bookbinders and custodians of records by those wise and frugal mothers who used to sew muslin and print calicoes about the lids of the children's school books. Those of us who had such a mother will remember how much longer our school books lasted and how much cleaner the bindings were kept when thus protected from the "elements" such as sloppy mud holes and nice sweet, sticky fingers so common to the average school boy. Here was an idea gained through the protection of books that cost only a few cents conveyed to expensive and invaluable record books. The practice grew and today the universal protection for large county records is the canvas jacket.

The awakening to the fact that the records must be preserved brought still other improvements. The steel people began to make rolled shelves for the books to lie on. Prior to this time it was customary to stand the books on end. When we stop to think that the lids extend beyond the paper at both the top and bottom of the book we readily understand that placing the books on ends puts them under a great strain as the whole weight of the unsupported paper pulls against the binding. Laying the books on their side on a rolling shelf was one of the greatest steps ever taken in the matter of providing shelves for the books.

It also became apparent about this time that the records were being used more and more and the continuous handling was wearing out the bindings. County officers began sending books out to binderies to have them revamped. Sometimes the volumes would have to be sent out of town. This sending of the records so far away from the offices proved to be so unsatisfactory that the binderies were importuned to send men and tools to repair these records right in the office. In this state the county clerks are under heavy bond for the safe keeping of the records and they disliked very much to see them shipped away, fearing the books might be lost, destroyed by fire or mutilated in transit and leave their records incomplete. Then, too, the records that were sent away were the very ones that the patrons of the office wished most to see.

Many custodians of records realized the danger and inconvenience of having the libers away and vowed that their records would never be repaired until such a time as they could have the work done in their own building, where the public could have access to them at all times and where they would be back in their accustomed places every night. By 1910 there was sufficient amount of this kind of work to warrant fitting up portable bookbinding plants and sending men to the libraries to do the work.

And so we have the portable or travelling bookbinders of which I am a specimen. I have made it a business for the past nine years of moving portable bookbinding plants from county to county where we rebind, repair and place the canvas jackets on county records. My work has taken me into fourteen states mostly east of the Mississippi and north of the Mason-Dixon line. My first visit into New York state in 1918 so impressed me that I have spent practically all of my time since then in this state. I have enjoyed the honor of working for all the lady county clerks in the state save one, Mary L. Webber at Wampsville, N. Y., who died shortly after taking office. I have also personally supervised the bookbinding in nearly one-half or to be exact 27 counties in this state.

In nine years of work I have examined 48,000 records, placed canvas jackets on 13,554, repaired 3,990 and rebound 3,494. With all this experience I do not hesitate to say that the loose leaf records in use in so many of our county offices today should be discontinued on the following points: First: The record is not permanently bound. The pages are interchangeable at will. Further, a very clever person can remove a sheet take it away from the office, alter it and return it to the book without being detected. County records are permanent records, must be kept forever and a day and one can readily see that the above conditions should not be allowed to exist. Second: These records are made up of loose sheets throughout which holes are punched and the paper placed over metal posts. In larger offices where the records are in constant use, the holes in the paper enlarge and tear out in from five to ten years. This is a very short life for a county record. I have pointed out previously that the best known method of sewing is that produced by the Chinese where each section is sewn through the fold. In some states the loose leaf record is now outlawed and the speaker predicts that in a short term of years there will be a returning to the permanently bound record and a going back to the old methods of binding books that have been tried and proven.

We are often called upon to preserve the old pages of books whose leaves have become torn, wrinkled, cracked and even burned around the edges. The torn and crumpled leaves are dampened, washed in a solution of pure Castile soap. After drying, a solution of sulpho-hydric ammonia is placed on the paper to bring out the legibility of the writing. The paper is then resized to give it strength. The pages are then veiled on both sides with silk and placed in a new linen paper frame which gives it a new and clean margin. The silk adheres so closely to the page that it is scarcely discernible and the legibility of the writing has not been impaired. This preserves the old and original record and gives it a new freshness that will enable it to stand the ravages of time for many more years to come.

Before closing, I would like to impress upon the minds of those present the importance of the county records that lie in the county clerk's and surrogate's offices. We find that many of the citizens place very little importance on the records. Nowhere has the county a like sum of money invested in the same amount of space as that which is invested in these records. In these two offices there are approximately 1,500 volumes. It has been estimated that these records have cost the county on an average of $1 per page; the expense being divided up into the purchase of the new book, the recording or writing up of the pages, the providing of a suitable place for their safe keeping and the expenditures made in keeping the books in repair. According to this estimate Ulster county has something like $900,000 invested in its records. That is only the monetary value. These books contain the chain of title to all of the land in the famous and historical county of Ulster. Therefore every citizen who owns property, and every citizen who ever expects to own property has an inalienable right in these books and it should appeal to his business judgment if not to his civic pride to do all in his power to keep the records complete, intact and preserved for the use of future generations.

Benjamin Franklin was a great lover of books, so much so that he likened his body to a great book in the following epitaph:

"The body of Benjamin Franklin, (Printer), like the cover of an old book, its contents torn out and stripped of its lettering and gilding, lies here, food for worms. But the work shall not be lost for it will (as he believed) appear once more in a new and more elegant edition, revised and corrected by the Author."

ELABORATE TREATMENT EXPRESSES THE FESTAL SPIRIT OF GRADUATION.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

For most of the great moments in the life of a girl she wears white. Graduation is certainly one of the festivals which, looking back, or forward, has great importance, and deserves careful costuming.

While there is a trend toward simplicity, and some almost tailored dresses are chosen by the participants in class day and commencement festivities, a certain amount of elaboration is permissible, even justified. This is especially true now that bouffant frocks, pleated aprons, lace and ruffles of one sort or another, are approved for these as well as less significant occasions.

White taffeta makes a plea for popularity for the commencement dress, and might be chosen for the model at the left—the ruffles being pink and made of the silk. For that matter, taffeta might be chosen for any of the models sketched, of chiffon, if one prefers it, to georgette and crepe—all materials of stand ng.

Interesting ribbon treatments are applicable to such frocks. Short ends of grosgrain ribbon may be converted into fringe and ruche effects, and are used to trim the straight or circular edge.

It has become the fashion to weigh down the skirt by some sort of trimming. Chiffon or crepe dresses which have circular or diamond-shaped godets are a newer version of the handkerchief point recommended to the girl who has an eye to the future and wants her graduation frock to serve for summer dances—the proms, for instance, which dot the June calendar.

Start Drive for Better Music

Ulster County Musical Association Seeking 1,000 Members in City and County—Plan Five Concerts for Fall and Winter.

Next week will occur an intensive drive for membership by the Ulster County Musical Association in the interest of better music in this city.

There has been a remarkable response by way of applications for membership in answer to the appeal sent out by the Association, and some musically inclined people have taken several memberships.

The Association organizers hope that the coming drive will meet with a ready response and thus make the work easier for the committee in charge, whose members are giving their services as a labor of love, for the sake of better music.

In spite of the care used in sending out letters, many persons anxious to join the new Association naturally have been overlooked, and it is hoped that all such people will promptly send in their applications for membership, with check, to Harry P. Dodge, and in return they will receive their membership card from Harry S. Ensign, treasurer. After the close of the membership drive, it will be impossible to secure membership or to get tickets for the concerts next fall and winter.

The purpose of the Association is explained in the letter already issued, which says in part:

Having suffered a dearth of good music in Ulster county for the past few years, the Ulster County Musical Association has been organized with the intent of bringing to the music lovers of this entire county, a series of five concerts, to be given at the High School Auditorium, Kingston, N. Y., the coming season. These concerts will offer the very best musical talent—great singers, violinists, pianists, orchestras, etc. By having these concerts it will be possible to offer memberships in the association for much less than tickets for the same talent would cost in the large cities. In the city of Kingston, this project has the active support of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and The Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs.

The plan is to secure 1,000 members in Ulster county, the dues to be $5 for the year, the same entitling the member to a ticket for each of the five concerts. No single tickets will be sold for any of the concerts which will be for association members only. There will be no guarantors for the Ulster County Musical Association, the membership dues entirely financing all concerts and the drive for memberships which will occur throughout the county the week of May 25.

Absolutely no profit can be derived by anyone, and no loss sustained under this plan. But upon the number of members secured before and during the drive will depend the number and bigness of the concerts. All money will be expended solely for the concerts, the rental of the High School Auditorium being but a nominal sum, thanks to the public spirit of the board of education of Kingston.

By supporting this movement you will not only be gratifying your own desire for good music, but you will be supporting that sort of musical education—the appreciation of good music—which will help to make your community a cultural center.

Boats Race Fast Train Monday

Speed Boats are Expected To Beat Twentieth Century Limited From Albany to New York on Monday Morning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 23.—Three of the fastest motor boats in the world will race the New York Central's crack Twentieth Century Limited from Albany to New York Monday morning.

The contest will be watched from an airplane and broadcast by the latest radio devices.

Judging from the record made Wednesday of this week by the speed boat Teaser, owned by R. F. Hoyt, the three boats in next week's race should beat the train by twenty minutes to a half hour.

The Teaser lowered the three hour running time of the Limited from New York to Albany by twenty minutes. The speed boat averaged a bit over 50 miles an hour.

Driving the three boats next Monday will be three of the men most noted in the world of speed boats. Gar Wood of Detroit, and his brother, George, will pilot the Baby Gar IV and the Baby Gar V, while the third entrant, Cigarette Jr., will be driven by C. Gordon Hammersley, a millionaire devotee of fast boating.

The race will start at 7:27 o'clock daylight saving time. As the Twentieth Century pulls out of the Albany Union station and starts across the Maiden Lane bridge, the three boats will shoot out from the Albany Yacht Club pier and start speeding down the historic Hudson.

One of the interesting delights of the race will be the fact that passengers on the Limited will be able to watch the race for many miles where the tracks run close along the river. It is expected the engineer of the Limited will blow the whistle a little more than usual to let his rivals know about where the train is in places where the tracks are not close to the river.

The Limited maintains a speed of fifty miles an hour between Albany and New York, and even if the engineer should see the train was losing beaten the same speed will be maintained. The New York Central will not permit any racing so far as the train is concerned but it has no objection to the speed boats trying to beat it.

OPENING DANCE.

OFF DAYS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

EVER have it happen, too?
Off days ever come to you
When you say the foolish thing,
Specialize in blundering?
That's the day I have today;
Ev'rything I do and say
In some weak and foolish way.

There are days a fellow's head
Acts like ivory or lead—
When the things you say, by far,
Make you worse out than you are,
When the things you tell the rest
Make you look your foolishest,
When you want to look your best.

It's the day you make mistakes,
Blunders, fumbles, silly breaks,
It's the day that often comes
When your fingers all are thumbs,
Dropping ev'ry throw to first—
For a man is often cursed
With a day he's at his worst.

Well, if such days come to you,
Just remember others, too,
Have an off day now and then;
Just remember other men,
Like yourself, get off their game—
Be a little slow to blame,
Knowing you are much the same.

YOUR Last Name

IS IT SEWALL?

THE New England Sewalls and Sewells have the satisfaction of knowing that they were descended from Henry Sewall, mayor of Coventry, England, in 1606. His son, Henry Sewall, came to New England and settled in Newberry, Massachusetts, in 1634. By his wife Jane Drummer he had a son named Samuel Sewall who was one of the most interesting of the Massachusetts colonists of his day. He gives an excellent chance to know him in his famous diary which recounts with quaintness, humor and rare truthfulness the details of his courtship in later life.

His first wife was Judith Quincy Hall and when he was married to her Governor Bradstreet performed the ceremony. It was on this occasion that the bride's father presented the young bridegroom with a chest full of pine tree shillings equaling the bride in weight.

At his second marriage Samuel's own son officiated.

Samuel Sewell was one of the judges who took an active part in condemning the witches. Later he saw the error of his ways and did not hesitate to confess his error and lament over the action he had taken. It was his custom to spend frequent days in prayer and fasting by way of repenting for his action in the witchcraft trials, although he undoubtedly acted according to his best judgment at the time.

Samuel Sewell made large bequests to Harvard. Joseph Sewell, one of his descendants, declined the presidency of Harvard in 1724, and Joseph's grandson, named Samuel, was member of congress from Massachusetts.

Jonathan Sewell, born in 1766, chief justice of Lower Canada, was a member of this family; born at Cambridge, Massachusetts, he spent his boyhood in England and from thence went to Canada.

The name is usually spelled here Sewall although it is said that at the time of the Revolution members of the family who remained loyal took the spelling Sewell. Apparently most of them were revolutionists for the spelling Sewell is very rare here.

One of the earliest of the name in England was Sewall de Sovill, archbishop of York.

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Isn't it pleasant to think of heaven as a place where you won't have to fill out income tax blanks.

Our sympathy goes out to the man who traded a balky mule for a flivver which knocked him into the gutter the first time he tried to crank it.

Some people couldn't kick any more if they were centipedes.

The more we learn about the world the better we understand why an infant yells at birth.

Brown—"Did the doctor find out what ailed you?"

Black—"I'll say he did! He told me I needed some change, and heaven knows I was never so hard up."

The skeptic is the man who refrains from jiggling the handles of a slot machine when he passes it to make sure that a penny won't fall out.

You may have not noticed the falling off, but there are twelve million fewer hogs in the country than a year ago.

An innocent girl is one who, when told to use rouge for her complexion, asks how many spoonfuls should be taken at a time.

If Washington knew all he had become "father" of, he would turn over in his grave.

A lot of men are known by the duties they shirk.

Cowed.

My girl thought that I said she
Could dance just like a zephyr;
I wonder what she'd think of me
If she knew that I said "heifer?"

The Chinaman named Dam Li must have been named in the heat of a political campaign.

Artificial bait has caught more fishermen than fish this year.

You never learn much from a person you can see through.

Maybe Lot's wife smelled something burning in the kitchen and turned back.

They are now making leather out of shark skins, we read. Is this a new industry? We'd say not. It seems to us we have observed for years any number of asses going around in shark's shoes.

It's easy to make money when you don't need it.

It is little wonder our vision is becoming impaired with so many irritating men in the public eye.

A recent newspaper report tells about a man who fell fifty feet from a scaffolding into a truck full of sand without being hurt. We doubt, however, if this performance will bring him a job in the movies as he did not bounce.

We will believe spring is really here when the lazy young men, too tired to dress, appear on the streets all hours of the day in sport clothes.

All the world may love a lover but no woman wants her lover to love the world.

Little Girl (speaking in quivering voice to big, heavy browed man with glittering knife): "Have you no heart?"

Man (growling): "No."

Little Girl: "Well, then, I'll take ten cents' worth of liver."

There isn't much difference between a keynote and a keyhole speech. They both mean, "Let me in."

Girl's Strange Mentality

Scientists are trying to find out what actuates a girl named Thea Alba. Until lately she had shown nothing specially strange about her actions, except the habit of writing with her left hand as well as her right. One day, however, she told her folks that she was continually thinking of two or three things at the same time, and very soon she began to do things that seemed to prove it. She wrote at first, two different words at the same time, one with each hand. Being a good drawer and a pianist, she trained herself so that she can paint and draw with both hands at once. She can play the piano with one hand, and at the same time write or draw with the other. At an examination before doctors she drew a portrait with each hand in twenty seconds. She can also write with three pieces of chalk at the same time. Just how or why—nobody yet knows.—Family Herald.

Instructing Her Doll

Little Annette had overheard the people next door quarrelling. Shortly afterwards as she was sitting on the plazza with her doll, she said very impressively: "Now, Doris, when you know I am right, you must never, never talk backward to me."

Mythological Goddess

In mythology, "Bellona" was the wife of Mars and the goddess of war. Her priests were called Bellonarii. On the 24th of March, Bellona's day, her votaries lacked themselves with knives and drank the blood of their sacrifices.

GROCER FINDS NEW WAY TO HELP FRIENDS

A letter was recently received by the Abso Laboratories, Inc., of New York from the proprietor of a grocery store (letter on file in Company's office). The grocer wrote that he had taken a bottle of ABSO-DIGEST and had found such relief from gases in his stomach that he wanted to buy ABSO-DIGEST in dozen lots to supply his friends who he knows are suffering as he did. ABSO-DIGEST is now available at Connelly Drug Company and William F. Fredrick. Ask the druggist about the guarantee to give immediate relief from indigestion in its many forms which comes with each bottle.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson planned to tour the battlefields of Europe this Summer, following the same itinerary she took with her late husband in peace conference days. Premier Painleve, of France, declared the next ten years may lead Europe "to the verge of the most horrible of all wars." State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, in Chicago, charged efforts had been made to "fix" the jury in the case of William D. Shepherd, on trial in connection with the mysterious death of his millionaire ward. Captain Roald Amundsen piloted one of two planes in a non-stop flight from Spitzbergen to the North Pole.

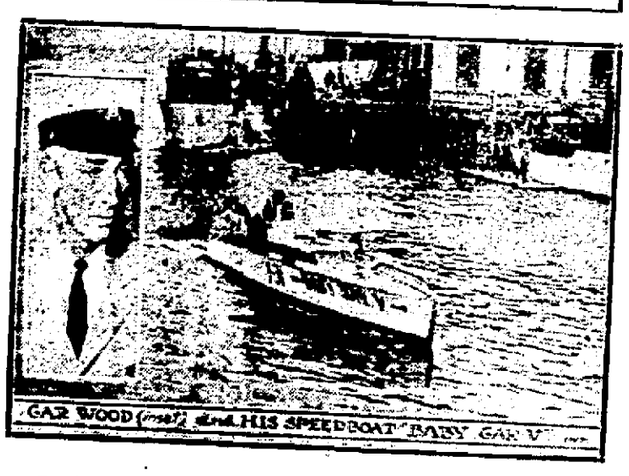
Miss Aida Hayward was kidnaped mysteriously from the cottage of her aunt, Mrs. Emma Townes, at Lake Maranacook, Me., by a group of men who shot and wounded Mrs. Townes and then burned down the cottage. Police dogs and a posse set out on the trail of the kidnapers, and the entire countryside joined in the search.

"Faster Than 20th Century"



Gar Wood, well-known Detroit sportsman and motorboat enthusiast, put up a $25,000 wager that his speed-boat, "Baby Gar V," can not only outspeed the Twentieth Century Limited, crack New York Central flyer, from New York to Albany up the Hudson River, but can also beat any other craft, including the "Teaser," which recently made 32 minutes better time than the limited.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LEGION WORKER IS GIVEN PROMOTION

William Stern, national vice commander of the American Legion, has been actively engaged in Legion work ever since the inception of the Legion. His interest and activity were recognized at the last national convention by his election to the national vice commandership.

At the caucus held at St. Louis in May, 1919, Mr. Stern was a delegate representing his home state of North Dakota. It was at that convention that the temporary organization of the Legion was effected. Since that time Mr. Stern has been a regularly elected delegate to every national convention.

Immediately after his return from the St. Louis meeting Mr. Stern proceeded to organize the North Dakota department of the Legion. The first post organized was Gilbert C. Grafton post at Fargo, the home of the national vice commander. He is a charter member of the post.

Mr. Stern has been a member of the post executive committee and of the department executive committee since the organization of the department. He has been chef de gare of the Forty and Eight.

During the war Mr. Stern enlisted in the quartermaster corps as a private. Four months later he was made a second lieutenant. He was discharged from service February 10, 1919.

Mr. Stern was born at Fargo, May 19, 1886. He attended St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis. He also attended the North Dakota Agricultural college.

GOOD CITIZENS

NEWTON G. GILBERT, former governor of the Philippine Islands, in a recent address, said of the American Legion:

"Soldier organizations are only worth while if they function in peace as well as in war, and I believe that it is easier to be a good citizen in time of war than it is in time of peace. Everyone tried to be a good citizen during the war, but it is difficult for the same men in days of peace to be as good citizens as they were in days of war. The American Legion has made it possible for all veterans to be just as good citizens during peace-time through organized service to their community, state and nation, as they were during the patriotic days of 1917-18."

Travel Committee Will Arrange for Paris Meet

Appointment of the France convention travel committee in preparation for the national convention of the American Legion to be held in Paris in either 1927 or 1928 was made recently by James A. Drain, national commander.

The committee includes: John J. Wicker, chairman, Richmond, Va.; Alton T. Roberts, Marquette, Mich.; J. Monroe Johnson, Marion, S. C.; Bowman Elder, Indianapolis, Ind.; B. W. Ball, Bristol, R. I.; Wade H. Phillips, Lexington, N. C.; Albert Greenlaw, Augusta, Me.; Samuel Reynolds, Omaha, Neb.; George Hatfield, San Francisco, Cal.

The committee will make all plans regarding transportation and travel. Unprecedented low rates will be arranged with steamship companies, according to Mr. Wicker.

A Business-Like, Practical Way to Buy a Car

YOU investigate carefully before you invest money in a business venture. You may consider many investments until you decide on the best one. Do you give the same careful consideration when you buy an automobile? Do you make sure that your $2000, $3000, $4000 or more, is buying the best value?

The purchase of a car is an investment—or should be. An investment in long, trouble-free service. In comfort. In pleasure. So we ask you to apply the same sane, careful judgment in its purchase as you do in the purchase of stocks and bonds. Here is a business-like, practical way to buy a car:

There are certain concrete qualities that you look for in any fine automobile. Qualities that you can see and feel. On the Analysis Blank, shown below, we list these all-important qualities.

We show on this blank the facts about the Paige Brougham. You fill in—under "competitor"—the facts (not beliefs) on any other fine car you may be considering—regardless of price. See both cars. Ride in them. Inspect them closely.

Then sit down and compare the facts. Weigh them carefully. Compare the cars in these essential qualities. And base your decision on the results of this calm, deliberate consideration.

This—is a business-like, practical way to buy a car! (340-4)

Use this blank before you buy!

QUALITIES	WHAT THEY MEAN	PAIGE	COMPETITOR

How Industry Got Name

As the country became settled and it became necessary to bring meat supplies east from points farther and farther west, the expedient was found of slaughtering the animals and sending meat rather than live animals. At first this practice was confined to pork which was salted down and packed in barrels, hence the name "packing industry."

Artaxerxes' Seal Found

In rummaging in one of the vaults of a Russian museum, investigators have found what is believed to have been the seal of Artaxerxes, the Persian monarch who ruled 465 to 425 B. C. The seal will now be exhibited in the Fine Arts museum at Moscow. The seal reads: "I am Artaxerxes, the Great King."

Beethoven's Oddities

Beethoven had an extreme style while conducting an orchestra. One critic says: "At a pianissimo he would crouch down so as to be hidden by the desk, and then as the crescendo increased he would gradually rise, beating all the time, until at the fortissimo he would spring into the air with his arms extended, as if wishing to float on the clouds."

Lost Millions

The three children of Mrs. Guinevere Gould and the late George J. Gould, Jr., George S. ten; Jane S., nine, and Guinevere, three, were eliminated from any share in the $32,000,000 Gould estate by a ruling of Referee James A. Gorman in New York, who, as one outcome of the lengthy litigation over the great trust fund, held that George Gould's second marriage did not come within the terms of the trust.

SILENT ADIEU TO NOTED MATADOR

Mexicans Pay Tribute to Greatest of Bullfighters on Retirement.

Mexico City.—With 40,000 spectators paying a silent tribute of admiration while the memory-stirring notes of "La Golondrina" ("When the Swallows Return") sounded over the crowded arena, Rodolfo Gaona, matador par excellence, made his last bow in the bull ring recently. At the feet of the gaudily arrayed figure lay the final bull of 20 years, a huge animal with a mortal sword thrust through his shoulders. The death struggle had brought the bull's head to the feet of its conqueror. For a few seconds Gaona stood spellbound, then stooped and lightly caressed the once cruel horns. It was his farewell to a life of bewitching peril before he strode silently out of an existence which had won him fame the world over. Tears were shed freely by those assistants who had fought near him for two decades as the gate closed on the last march from the field.

It was a fitting climax to the end of one of the most remarkable public careers of any entertainer of modern times.

Probably no American film star or baseball player can lay claim to anything like the height of glory Gaona has reached in the eyes of the Mexican people. Gaona fought bulls perfectly, and the Mexicans love bullfighting better than any other diversion. Gaona is a Mexican and in the estimation of many international critics the best in his profession, either in Spain or Mexico.

Began Life as Bootblack.

Gaona's career has been a remarkable one. He started life as an uneducated bootblack. He is more popular in Mexico today than any President and has a fortune estimated at $2,000,000. On one occasion he was presented with a bishop's tiara after he had displayed extraordinary skill and courage and had killed his animal with a single thrust, a difficult feat.

On the recent day of his retirement seats which ordinarily sell for from $2 to $5 went for $25 to $100. The performance started at three in the afternoon. At noon practically every seat in the arena was taken except those reserved. It began to rain, but through it all there was music and the spectators prayed that Pluvius might cut off the water in time to allow the performance to begin. Five minutes before the indicated hour, as if by magic, the dark clouds cleared and, as the clock at the top of the amphitheater chimed three o'clock, the sun broke through and perfect weather prevailed. A mighty roar rose from 40,000 throats.

"Caliph of the Arena."

Gaona, the "Caliph of the Arena," as he is termed, the unequaled, appeared and the fight was on. He played and fought his first enemy with all cunning and killed the beast with a single thrust. His second victim suffered a similar fate. His third animal was uncontrollable, known to bullfightdom as "manso." The beast did not lend himself to art and gracefulness on the part of the man. The multitude roared for an extra bull. Gaona, the spectacular, turned to the judge's stand and signified that the request be granted. It was.

The substitute bull turned out to be all that the rules of the game required and "obeyed" the red cape to perfection, making it possible for Gaona to display the best in him. Within inches of the sharp horns, he played with the brute, caressed his forehead, knelt and turned his back to the sharp horns, touched the dangerous points. Like a hypnotist he controlled the animal. He "threw" himself "into the kill," his sword struck home clean through the shoulder blades to the heart.

The animal gave up the struggle, the last note sounded from the band. Gaona bowed his head and moved to the exit from the arena. The multitude, sorrow choked, uttered no sound whatever. Generally when "kills" such as Gaona had just registered take place there is a roaring cry of approval such as only a Latin audience can emit.

No Rent Boost, Tenants Give Cup to Landlord

New York.—To show their appreciation of a landlord who has not raised rents in 30 years, 52 families held a love feast in honor of "Uncle" Max Dick, sixty, owner of the tenement. A silver loving cup, engraved with the words "The Model Landlord," was presented to him.

"Uncle" Max recently has had the six-story tenement wired for electricity, which is still something of a luxury on the lower east side. He did this without passing the cost on to the tenants in increased rent.

The tenement is known locally as "The House of Babies." "Uncle" Max's announcement in 1920 of a $200 reward to any couple who became the parents of twins while living there is said to have stimulated the birth rate marvelously. Now 281 children live in the building.

The loving cup was presented to Mr. Dick in the apartment of Mrs. Minnie Monkowitz, janitress of the building. She moved all her belongings into the hall for the day so all the tenants could witness the presentation.

His Dog His Instructor

Here's a worth-while dog story, as told in the Winnsmac (Ga.) Republican:

"John Moorman was talking the other day about modern sports and old-time sports—basketball and dog fights. Said John: 'When I was a kid I had a dog that was scrappy, and was my instructor in philosophy and rules of life as well. My dog didn't always lick his opponent in battle, but when he himself received a drubbing he didn't whine around the house and at his master's heels, but crawled way back, under the kitchen and stayed there, without food or further comfort until his wounds were healed. Then he emerged, took a full meal, and was ready again with pep and vigor to meet the world's problems. When he was licked "he went way back and sat down," and in the solitude was able to get his bearings and meet his further tasks with decision.'"

"Limited" Railway Trains

The word "limited" as applied to trains came into use about the time of the Civil war. Originally the only limiting feature of the "limited train" was the number of cars to be drawn. Now "limited" as applied to trains running a certain distance, carrying only a limited number of cars and prescribing the accommodations that can be given each passenger, for which an increased fare is charged. Such trains are invariably fast trains. Consequently "limited train" has become synonymous, popularly speaking, with "fast train."—Pathfinder Magazine.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Aboard the U. S. S. Seattle with the United States fleet in Hawaiian waters, May 23, via radio to I. N. S.). —Fleet torpedo practice today was of a highly spectacular nature.

Two airplanes crashed but without damage to personnel and a third was forced down.

The "white" and "green" fleet battleships simulated an engagement with larger calibre guns while the green cruisers launched an attack against the white destroyers.

HOLDS SECRET SOCIETY LAW CONSTITUTIONAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, N. Y., May 23.—"The Klan will carry the fight to the court of appeals and as far beyond that as the law permits."

This was the statement today of Louis E. Fuller, attorney for the state Ku Klux Klan, following the decision yesterday of the Appellate Division, Fourth Department, upholding the constitutionality of the Walker law.

By a vote of 4 to 1 the justices held the legislature had the power to compel secret societies to file membership lists and took a direct hit at the Klan as a group which "exercises activities tending to the prejudice and intimidation of sundry classes of citizens."

The opinion added:

"If the purposes of an oath bound organization are worthy ones, there can be no good reason why it should hesitate to comply with this statute, for the fullest publicity can in no way injure or prejudice right endeavor.

"The statute in question was constitutional as a police regulation for the general welfare and safety of the people of the state."

It contained $350 in cash. The patrolman going off duty tried the door before he left the beat and the one who replaced him found it open. Detectives have been unable to find a single clue.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 23.—Profit taking in some of the industrial and motor stocks and new forward movements in railroad stocks produced an irregular trend in stock prices in the short session of the market today.

Du Pont, Mack Trucks, Industrial Alcohol, etc., started the day at higher prices, but profit taking sales poured into the market, and first prices for many of these stocks were the highest for the period.

In the first hour 449,000 shares changed hands.

Montana Power and Consolidated Gas featured the utility stocks, the former reaching 87 and the latter 87½. American Can advanced to a new high at 194. National Distillers climbed to a new high at 37½.

Both the petroleum market and the market for petroleum company stocks displayed a strong tone. Western dispatches indicated good buying of crude oil and gasoline at better than posted prices, while gasoline consumption was reported on the increase, as compared with April. Stocks of the California Oil companies led the trading in the market. Pan-American reacted nearly 2 points from Friday's high price.

Industrial Alcohol made a new high above 91 but dropped to below 90 on profit taking. American Agricultural Chemical Common and Preferred and the mercantile stocks made the best selling records of the week.

Amundsen's Fate Still in Doubt

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Oslo, Norway, May 23.—The success or failure of Captain Roald Amundsen's spectacular aerial dash to the North Pole—and the fate of the explorers themselves, still remained hidden today in the ice-locked polar north.

No word has come from Captain Amundsen and Lieutenant Lincoln Ellsworth, an Ohio aviator, and the four other men who hopped off in two airplanes Thursday afternoon from Spitzbergen on their 16 hour continuous flight to and from the pole.

The most hopeful indication that the six men were safe came from Spitzbergen. Weather conditions there continued favorable and meteorological observers with a little party awaiting the return of the flyers said this indicated the elements had presented no unexpected obstacles.

If Amundsen and his party stopped for a few hours at the pole to make observations it was the belief in Oslo that they should be back at Spitzbergen about noon today.

There is a conflict in opinion among European scientists whether the pole is land or water, it was pointed out.

If Amundsen discovered the pole is land then it is probable, observers here said that he would risk coming to earth and plant a flag and claim the land in the name of the king of Norway.

Mistaken Idea That Moon Rises in East

If you were asked where the moon rises you would probably say, "In the east." And you would be wrong.

True, we see it coming up above the eastern horizon at night, but that is simply because the earth, by turning in its direction, brings it into view.

In reality, the moon "rises" in the west. If there is any doubt on the point, all that it is necessary to do is to watch its progress across the sky night after night.

It would seem to be moving from right to left; that is, from west to east. The stars prove this. One night it will be near a star in the west and the next night near another star a good way to the left, or east; then farther to the east the following night, and so on.

The moon, in short, has risen or come up out of the west, and is journeying across the sky to the east. Nothing is more easily demonstrated, because the stars themselves are there to mark the track.

New Proposition to Make Desert Useful

The suggestion was made recently that the Sahara might become the greatest power-station in the world by the utilization of the heat of its countless miles of burning sand.

This is a new idea in the way of making the desert useful; but when we remember how electrical power is obtained from water, as in the case of Niagara, and even from the wind, this latest suggestion cannot be dismissed as impracticable.

It is certainly unlikely that the deserts of the world will be permitted to remain indefinitely as they are at present. New territory is constantly being opened up in the search for new sources of food and raw materials, the latest development in this direction being a plan for making the French possessions in the Sudan into a great cotton-growing and cattle-raising country.

Duty of Literature

That the world is "seething with scoundrels of both sexes" is true. Human nature is imperfect, and therefore it would be strange to see on earth none but the righteous. To believe that it is the duty of literature to dig out "pearls" from the heap of scoundrels is to reject literature itself. Fiction is called artistic because it draws life as it actually is. Its aim is absolute and honest truth. To narrow its function to the special task of digging for "pearls" is just as deadly for it as if you were to make Levitan paint a tree and ordered him not to include the dirty bark nor the yellow leaves.—From the "Life and Letters of Anton Tchekkov," by S. S. Kobeliansky and Philip Tomlinson.

Easy to Demonstrate

The problem of the revolution of a wheel may be explained by the fact that the top is moving forward in the direction in which the vehicle is progressing, while the bottom is moving backward or in an opposite direction. To demonstrate this in a practical way, take a coin, mark points at the top and bottom as A and B. Make a mark at the starting point directly beneath A and B upon whatever surface the coin is to be rolled. Roll the coin forward a quarter revolution. It will be seen that A moves upon a radius equal to the diameter of the circle and by actual measurement A has moved a greater distance and described a greater curve than B.

Expert Repairing

We have heard a good deal of late years of invisible mending, and it is a fact that some of the experts in this work can repair the worst rents in tweeds or stuffs without leaving a trace of their handiwork. The most remarkable feat in this direction stands to the credit of the Gobelin tapestry factory in Paris.

Some years ago the priceless tapestry representing the entry of Louis XIV into Dunkirk was stolen, and when recovered had been cut into a dozen pieces. This great length of embroidery has been repaired so perfectly that even the most careful examination reveals no sign of the cuts.

Excellent High School Concert

The Kingston High School Glee Club and the Kingston High School Orchestra assisted by Paul Thayer, tenor of Boston, gave an excellent and enjoyable concert at the High School auditorium on Friday evening. Both the glee club and the orchestra were conducted by Charles R. Spaulding, supervisor of music of the Kingston Schools.

The first half of the program was devoted to the Glee Club numbers and a group of songs by Mr. Thayer. The singing of the Glee Club which was ably accompanied by Miss Ruth Shultis, was thoroughly pleasing, the young people keeping in excellent pitch: enunciating clearly and singing with expression several very musical songs. Mr. Thayer has a sweet tenor voice of good range and sang in a manner that called forth much applause as did the Glee Club singing.

The second half of the program consisted of selections by the orchestra and another group of songs by the tenor. From the beginning of the first number, "Washington Post March by Sousa, to the last of the Kingston March by Spaulding, a number in which both Glee Club and orchestra took part, the instrumentalists played with credit to their conductor and themselves. The instruments were in tune, the rhythm was good, and the attacks and releases clean, calling forth much applause. The audience was also enthusiastic over Mr. Thayer's songs of sentiment and encores were in order by Glee Club, soloist and orchestra.

S. A. Evangelist Attracting Crowds

Evangelist Thomas Houston, the blind wonder, is attracting good crowds at the services at the local Salvation Army Hall on North Front street. Friday night a delegation was present from the Albany Avenue Baptist and Elmendorf Street Presbyterian churches. Mrs. Nichols sang a very inspiring solo and the evangelist gave an interesting address on "The Kidnapped Girl."

Tonight the Blind Evangelist will speak at the open air service in Rondout at 7:15 o'clock and also at the hall on North Front street.

Sunday night at 8 o'clock he will deliver his famous address on "The Flag of Flags" to the congregation. The Junior Order of American Mechanics will attend in a body. The Daughters of Liberty and the Daughters of the Revolution are invited to come in a body.

Schillings Win Opening Game

Van Slyke & Horton Nine Defeated By Schillings in Opening Industrial League Game Friday at Athletic Field.

A large number of fans were present at the Athletic Field Friday evening to witness the opening session of the Industrial Baseball League and to see the Schilling Furniture Company team down the G. W. Van Slyke & Horton nine 6 to 1. The opening game proved to be a very interesting, the teams fighting hard from start to finish.

In the opening inning the Schilling outfit came across with the first run of the league and it was scored by Weeks who held the position of left field for the winners. The fine brand of pitching contributed greatly in the victory for the Schilling team. Williams, the young pitcher for the furniture makers, had ten strikeouts and only allowed one hit. Williams allowed six free passages.

Lewis, playing left helder for the cigar makers, made some very fine plays. He was credited with five putouts and also with the lone hit, which came in the sixth inning.

Poloskie, who pitched for the Van Slyke outfit, had four strikeouts and allowed one walk. He, however, hit the second man up in the opening inning, making a total of two free bases for the Schilling team. Ten hits were gleaned off Poloskie.

Connelly of the Schilling team made the longest hit of the game placing the sphere slightly beyond the center fielder.

The score by innings:

Schilling	1	0	0	1	0	2	2	—6
Van Slyke	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	—1

Fast Game at Fair Grounds

On Sunday is the Opinion of Fans Here and in Neighboring Places—Morgan Will Probably be Sent to Hurl.

Reports from Poughkeepsie seem to indicate that the Colonials will be on the short end of the betting odds in their game with the American Chain team here Sunday.

At Freddie Wetmore's store several bets were laid that the Chain Team would be returned the winners and also one that the Colonials would not get six hits off Parker if he works against them.

If the Colonials, who seemed to have struck their batting stride last Sunday, can keep up their hitting, Parker will be in for quite a time and the down river fans disappointed.

The lineup for the Chain Team will be Wargo, c; Backus, Wilson and Parker, pitchers; McCarthy, 1st; Casserly, 2nd; Klinger, ss; Lubik, 3rd; Moshier, rf; Mullany, cf; Creevy, rf.

The Colonial line up will probably be Robins, c; Morgan, p; McDermott, 1st base; Deegan, 2nd b; Fitzpatrick, ss; McCue, 3rd base, Schwab, lf, Kelly, cf; Jimmie Morgan, rf.

Clyde Russell, the big Albany pitcher, will be held in reserve.

Manny McDermott, whose flashy playing around first base has been the talk of the town since last Sunday, will hold down that job until Coyle has recovered from his injury and may be played steadily in the outfield to get the full use of his hitting power as Mac is one of the hardest hitters in semi pro ball in this section as well as being a good left handed pitcher.

The Colonials will be without the use of Fitzpatrick and Kelly for Decoration Day but are trying to get the services of a former college short stop who will fill in acceptably.

Tagging Major League Bases

Western clubs suddenly turned a form handspring and made a clean up in the National League.

Aldridge's laudable pitching through the last five innings and Traymore's double in the tenth off Dean gave the Pirates a 6 to 5 decision over the Giants. The Pirates smote McQuillan for five runs in the first but circus fielding kept them at bay until the final inning

The Braves came with a rush in the last two innings, rushing Rhem to the wall, but the Cardinals' early lead allowed them to ease in with the verdict, 8 to 6

Homers fairly darkened the sky as the Reds snapped out of their batting slump and mauled the Phillies 11 to 2. Walker and Donohue had a perfect day with five hits each.

His name is Percy Lee Jones but he pitched like Bugs Raymond as the Cubs scored a 2 to 0 victory over the Dodgers. Johnston's scratch single in the first was the only hit Percy permitted in nine innings but he walked six.

HARVARD-PRINCETON TRACK FINALS TODAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Cambridge, Mass., May 23.—Track meet fans who saw Paavo Nurmi, foiled by a gale of wind, run the mile in 4:15 1-5 in Harvard Stadium, today turned their attention to the finals in the Harvard-Princeton dual track meet.

Princeton was the favorite. Harvard, however, was given a margin in the field events.

Old Canadian Towns

Quebec was founded by Samuel de Champlain on July 3, 1608. The next oldest place in British North America is St. John's, Newfoundland, founded by Witherbourne in 1613. The next in point of time is Three Rivers, on the St. Lawrence river, half-way between Montreal and Quebec, founded by La Vellette on July 4, 1634.

Always Something Beyond

Every human feeling is greater and larger than the exciting cause—a proof, I think, that man is designed for a higher state of existence, and this is deeply implied in music, in which there is always something more and beyond the immediate expression. —Coleridge.
